Bank Robbers Dig Out Of Alcatraz With Teaspoons

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Three desperate bank robbers at Alcatraz Island Prison dug through their concrete cell walls with spoons and escaped early Tuesday. They apparently used a driftwood raft for the first successful break in the 28-year history of the federal government's toughest prison, which sets like a battle-ship in San Francisco Bay 1 1/4 miles north of the city.

A widespread hunt for the three convicts included a military police search of Angel Island, a timbered state park 1 1/4 miles north of the bleak rock prison.

Acting Warden Arthur M. Dollison said the three men were missed at a 6 a. m. check.

Dummies In Beds

In their cots were crude dummies, with heads made of plaster and point and pillows for bodies, said Walter Bertrand, secretary to the warden.

Plaster blocks covered the holes in the cells. No one could explain how the men got the plaster. Stubs of teaspoons were scattered beside holes in the four-inch thick concrete walls of the cells. The convicts' trail led through a utility pipe tunnel and up a 30-foot pipe to a broken roof skylight.

The fugitives went 50 feet down a drain pipe outside the wall. Dollison said it appeared they sealed the two 12-foot wire fences at the island's western end. Steep rock cliffs there block the view from two manned gun towers facing Golden Gate Bridge, 2 1/4 miles to the west.

Dollison said evidence indicated they pushed off from the island rocks on driftwood or an improvised raft. An incoming tide was running from 3 a. m. to 8 a. m.

Three Identified

He identified the fugitives as: Frank Lee Morris, 36, under 14-year sentence for a bank robbery conviction in New Orleans Sept. 19, 1956.

John W. Anglin, 34, under 15-year sentence for the January, 1958, robbery of the Bank of Columbia, Ala.

Clarence Anglin, 28, John's brother, under 10-year sentence for the Columbia robbery. Morris, unmarried, was transferred from Atlanta Federal Prison to Alcatraz Jan. 18, 1960.

The two Anglins, and a third brother, Alfred Ray Anglin, 31, were captured at Hamilton, Ohio, after the Alabama robbery and pleaded guilty.

John and Clarence were transferred from Leavenworth Federal Prison to Alcatraz after Clarence aided John in an unsuccessful attempt to escape by hiding in bread boxes in 1960. John came to Alcatraz Oct. 24, 1960, and Clarence Jan. 16, 1961.

Many Theories

Although Dollison said evidence indicated use of a raft or driftwood to get away from the rock, it remained possible that the men still were hiding on the island.

It also was possible that one or all three drowned in the churning currents surging through the Golden Gate into San Francisco Bay.

Twenty convicts previously had tried escapes since Alcatraz became a federal prison in 1934.

Five were shot. Twelve were recaptured, one drowned and prison officials said they were convinced the other two also drowned.

Press For Passage This Year

Democrats Determined To Pass Tax Measures

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic congressional leaders emphasized Tuesday their determination to fight for passage in this session of Congress of President Kennedy's tax withholding and business incentive proposals.

There have been suggestions that the controversial House-passed tax revision legislation be shelved and included in the big tax overhaul Kennedy has said he will seek next year.

The decision to keep pressing for passage this year was announced by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana after Kennedy's weekly White House breakfast with his party's congressional leaders.

Mansfield said he wanted to make it "perfectly clear that neither the President nor we of the Democratic leadership are considering postponing action on this vitally important legislation."

He said every sector of the economy is in virtual agreement that an incentive for business investment in new production equipment is essential for the nation's continued growth and well-being.

As passed by the House on March 29, the bill would allow 7 per cent tax credits for business expenditures on modernization of production facilities.

Mansfield added that "Other sections of the bill are equally important—particularly the proposal to withhold taxes on dividends and interest income, which is essential as a matter of simple tax fairness."

It is the 20 per cent tax withholding feature that has drawn the stiffest opposition of the many provisions in the bill. One of the most vocal opponents is Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., of the Senate Finance Committee, which has been studying the measure for over two months. A committee majority apparently opposes the withholding plan.

Mansfield said he expects the bill to reach the Senate floor for action next month. Even though Byrd opposes some parts of the measure, he added, "Sen. Byrd is diligent and fair and will not delay the bill."

A witness at Tuesday's closed hearing was Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon. Byrd said there was no discussion of the withholding section or any provision other than taxation of foreign earnings.

Byrd said the committee will be unable to spend any more time on the measure this week. Next week, he said, the senators will reopen their public hearings to spend four more days taking testimony on the foreign income provisions.

Lawrence May Not Pick Interim Judge

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Lawrence said Tuesday he hasn't decided whether to appoint an interim judge to fill a vacancy on the state Supreme Court.

"I don't know whether I will appoint a judge or not," the governor said at his weekly news conference. "There are only a few months left and they (the court) only have a short session in September."

The vacancy was created last month by the death of Justice Curtis Bok at his home in Philadelphia.

Bok was a Democrat. The court now is divided evenly with three Republicans and three Democrats. Anyone appointed by Lawrence now would serve until next January. A new justice will be elected to a full 21-year term in the Nov. 6 general election.

Neither Party Picks

However, neither party has picked its candidate. The Democratic State Committee meets Wednesday with the Supreme Court vacancy expected to be one of the main topics of discussion.

Lawrence indicated Tuesday he would go into the session without any recommendations.

Turning to other matters at the news conference, Lawrence expressed confidence the state "will do all right" in its efforts to balance the $1 billion 1961-62 budget when the fiscal period ends June 30.

"I see that Mr. Bloom (Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom) says that we are putting the squeeze on," Lawrence laughed. "Mr. Bloom probably doesn't know that we have had the squeeze on government expenditures here since January, 1959. And that is one of the things that has helped us."

"Of course," he added, "I sympathize with Bloom. He's got a tough job ahead of him to try to beat down the natural feeling the people will have for a party whose administration balanced the budget. It will be a bit hard for him. Especially after all those years of unbalanced budgets under Republican rule."

Other Developments

In other news conference developments:

Mrs. Lawrence — The governor said his wife, Alyce, was planning to enter Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore Tuesday afternoon for a checkup and special treatments.

Mrs. Lawrence has been having trouble with her back, the governor said, and "the doctor here said they (Johns Hopkins) have some kind of a treatment that might help."

Mrs. Lawrence's ailment has something to do with calcium deposits, he added.

Reapportionment—Lawrence declined comment on House Speaker H. G. Andrews' threat to seek impeachment of any Pennsylvania judge who declares this state's constitution unconstitutional in reference to apportionment of legislative districts.

Andrews apparently is waging a one-man war, Lawrence said, and the 85-year-old Johnstown legislator's position is not that of the Democratic party.

WITNESS AT NIGHT CLUB PROBE — Penny Singleton, a former president of the American Guild of Variety Artists, is the leadoff witness before a special Senate subcommittee probing conditions in the night club entertainment field. She accused paid officials of the union of conniving with night club owners to degrade and exploit run-of-the-mine exotic dancers and other entertainers. (AP Wirephoto)

Actress Says Union Seeks More Bar-Girls Than Actors

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pretty Penny Singleton, blonde of the movies, charged Tuesday her union has opened its doors to exotic dancers who spend most of their time working as B-girls.

Singer Pat Lynn Hackett told Senate investigators that in many Philadelphia night clubs an ability to degrade customers to buy more drinks was more important than any stage talents.

She said she once heard an agent whose main sales pitch for a dancer client was: "This girl can drink any man under the table."

Both women told the Senate Investigations subcommittee their union — the American Guild of Variety Artists (AGVA) — had done nothing to enforce its rules against performers being required to mingle with customers.

In fact, Miss Singleton said AGVA had made an effort to enroll more exotic dancers, or striptease dancers. She said it was these new members who most frequently were forced to serve as B-girls and try to sell drinks to the customers.

'Grabbing Headlines'

Jackie Bright, AGVA administrative secretary, accused Miss Singleton of trying to grab headlines at the expense of decent men and women in the union.

Bright, who is scheduled to testify later, denied Miss Singleton's charges in talking with newsmen and described her as once a great star but said the parade has passed her by.

He told reporters Miss Singleton had shown continuous malice against this union since several misunderstandings while she served as its president several years ago.

Miss Singleton, looking prim and pretty wearing a white dress figured with blue sailorboats and a perky white straw sailor hat, said she had been kicked out of the union last month.

She said girls were forced by house rules to serve as B-girls and submit to other indignities in order to get and hold jobs—and she said the union did nothing to prevent it.

Tax Evasion

The union also connived with the night club owners in tax evasion, Miss Singleton said, by not requiring them to file W2 tax withholding forms, Social Security or other deductions normally required of employers.

Counsel for the subcommittee told her the Internal Revenue Service has taken note of this. Miss Singleton predicted B-drinking would quickly cease if these night club proprietors were forced to file withholding forms.

Jerome Adlerman, subcommittee counsel, said the IRS is looking into the possibility that vast sums of money are being lost to the government.

Two Billion Less Than JFK Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—A national debt ceiling of $306 billion appears likely in place of the $308 billion President Kennedy's administration seeks.

Democrats cleared the way Tuesday for a strategic retreat when the House takes up the issue, probably Wednesday.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said he is making a new check to determine whether the Republican-backed $306-billion figure would put the Treasury in too confining a strait-jacket.

If he is reassured, when the vote is expected, he will not oppose the lower level, Mills said.

Present Ceiling

The present ceiling is $300 billion, equal to the World War II high. The Kennedy administration proposed raising it for the year beginning July 1 to $308 billion. The Democratic majority of the Ways and Means Committee agreed, but stipulated that the limit should drop by stages, beginning March 31, back to $300 billion.

Republican committee members, however, held out for a ceiling of no more than $306 billion at any time during the year. They said in a minority report they want to promote a determined effort to control the increasing rate of federal expenditures.

Democratic leaders, after checking members of their own party, were understood to have concluded they could defeat a Republican amendment to set the ceiling at $306 billion—but then they might not be able to pass the bill.

Unless Congress passes some legislation, the ceiling automatically drops to its permanent level of $285 billion at the end of this month, when by Treasury estimates the actual debt will be $293.7 billion.

A hasty compromise presumably would have to be made to avoid this situation, and the resulting ceiling likely would be lower than $306 billion.

As Mills outlined his position Tuesday to the House Rules Committee, some members of that panel said a debt ceiling crisis might not be a bad thing.

"It would create a hell of a mess and maybe that's what this country needs now," said Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., long an opponent of what he calls big spending programs.

And the senior Republican member, Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, said he has concluded "the only way to wear a calf is to drag it away from its mother."

X-15 Pilot Soars 34 Miles In Space

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Test pilot Bob White rocketed more than 34 miles into space Tuesday in his first flight in an X-15 specially equipped for upcoming record-altitude missions to 75 miles or more.

White hit a speed of 3,545 m.p.h. on the way up to an altitude of 180,000 feet.

The plane, third and last X-15 made, has a unique control system designed to assist pilots in attempts to reach 400,000 feet later this year. An earlier model already has gone to 246,700 feet but National Aeronautics and Space Agency officials doubt much higher altitudes can be reached with the old control system.

White shot to peak altitude 153 seconds after dropping away from beneath the wing of a B-52 carrier plane 45,000 feet above Delamar Dry Lake 218 miles north of here in Nevada.

Then he leveled off for a dangerous maneuver now winged craft other than the X-15 has ever attempted.

Using steam jets like those on Mercury astronaut capsules to tilt the X-15's nose some 20 degrees above horizontal, he slashed back into the atmosphere—his rocket plane's undersurface exposed like a diver in a belly buster plunge.

Engineers estimated the X-15 hit the atmosphere at a speed of about 3,000 miles an hour, air friction charring the steel clad plane's heat-resistant paint with temperatures up to 1,000 degrees.

White, in his refrigerated cabin, felt little discomfort. He landed the X-15 at 12:13 p.m. after a 10-minute flight.

Synod Backs Planned Parenthood

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. (AP)—For the first time in the history of the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America, a statement on planned parenthood was presented today. The statement was adopted.

The synod also voted to encourage its huge membership to "stubbornly resist all attempts to deprive our children of the religious symbols of Bible reading and prayer in our public education systems."

The planned parenthood statement was presented by the synod's Christian Action Commission, which also brought up the school Bible reading subject.

The statement said, "The sex relationship in marriage does not require procreation as its justification. It is first and foremost the unity of the married partners and also an essential medium in effecting this unity."

Water Pollution Cost Listed

PITTSBURGH (AP)—James M. Quigley, assistant secretary of the U. S. Health, Education and Welfare Department, Tuesday urged Congress to appropriate $5 million for a preliminary study spearheading an all-out attack on the problem of water pollution from mine drainage.

Quigley presented the proposal at the opening session of the National Symposium on the Control of Coal Mine Drainage.

The preliminary study is one step in a multi-phase program outlined in a report of the Public Health Service made public at the symposium.

For many years, the report points out, acid formed in abandoned mines has been draining off into streams and rivers, causing dangerous and costly water pollution.

Market Slumps Again

NEW YORK (AP)—The third heaviest loss of the current slump rocked the stock market Tuesday. It was exceeded only by falls on May 28—the deepest since 1929—and on June 4.

The action abandoned the pattern of the last three weeks—sharp drops on Monday and good gains on Tuesday. It also left popular averages—used to measure market movements—just above the low points reached May 28.

An estimated $6.8 billion was wiped from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Only the gold mining issues, which usually rise in a falling market, escaped the trend.

Some brokers said the delicately balanced market was upset by statements by President Kennedy and his budget director, David E. Bell.

They took the stand that Kennedy's remarks at Yale University commencement exercises indicated he would hold to his own economic ideas even if business men didn't like them.

Bell said in a New York speech Tuesday that administration spending and tax policies would be changed this year if the economy begins to lag seriously.

Food Costs Dip Slightly In County

Record Harrisburg Bureau HARRISBURG — Overall cost of food in the Monroe-Northampton area showed a decline of 0.1 per cent during the first quarter of 1962, the State Department of Labor and Industry has disclosed. This is in contrast to the statewide average which showed an upswing of 0.4 per cent during the quarter.

Commenting on the statewide increase in the food index the department noted that "higher prices for most fresh fruits and vegetables accounted for a large part of the rise in the state's quarterly food index."

Average Of Some Items
The following represent some of the sample food items for the area indicating average cost during the past quarter, with the preceding quarter's average in parentheses:

Chuck roast, 64c per pound (65c); hamburger, 56c per pound (59c); pork chops, 96c per pound (97c); sliced bacon, 70c per pound (74c); frying chickens, 37c per pound (40c); frozen fillet of haddock, 53c per pound (58c).
Butter, 73c per pound (75c); eggs, 57c a dozen (61c); frozen orange juice, 21c a six ounce can (23c); apples, 20c a pound (14c); fresh green beans, 29c a pound (31c); potatoes, 59c for ten pounds (53c); sweet potatoes, 17c a pound (13c).
Coffee, 64c per pound (68c); tea, 22c for a package of 16 (23c); lard, 15c per pound (21c); shortening, 83c for three pounds (90c); peanut butter, 48c per pound (52c); sugar, 59c for five pounds (59c).

Parade Will Inaugurate Bible School

A COMMUNITY daily vacation Bible school will be held in the Tobyhanna Township Elementary Center at Pocono Lake with classes being held from 9 to 11:30 a.m. daily, Monday through Friday, from June 18 through 29.

Cooperating are the Pocono Lake Methodist Church and Salem United Church of Christ. Rev. Jerry C. Crossley and Rev. Elmer G. Meissner, pastors of the churches, will be co-directors.

A parade to arouse interest in the school will be held Saturday afternoon in Pocono Lake with the theme of the school, "Patriots for Christ," as its motif.

The parade will leave the school at 2 p.m., proceed to the Central Garage, then to Judges Cottages and return to the school. Participants should be at the school by 1:30 p.m.

Local Pastor To Take Turn As Handyman

PASTOR Bruce J. Fox of the Stroudsburg Seventh-day Adventist church will forego his ministerial duties this Sunday, June 17, and turn carpenter and general handyman to help prepare for his church's Annual Campmeeting and Summer Bible Conference at Wescoosville, near Allentown, June 29.

Pastor Fox is joining ministers, Bible workers, and other church employees from East Pennsylvania at the campsite to help prepare for the influx of about a thousand persons daily at the annual 10-day religious convocation. Weekends will see the crowds swell to over the three-thousand mark.

He will be busy until opening date, putting family tents up, stringing electrical wiring, placing thousands of chairs and a host of other duties.

Local Adventist church members are expecting one of the biggest and most important conferences ever held by the denomination at Wescoosville this year.

Local church officials said the purpose of the convocation is to re-emphasize spiritual values and to renew consecration of church members.

Stroud Union Grads Told Of Requisite To Taxpayer

"YOU, the 1962 graduates of Stroud Union High School have an obligation to the taxpayers," Philip Lovejoy told the seniors last night, Philip E. Hansen, valedictorian, received all the academic awards presented at the class, including the highest award to a graduating senior, the Eggbert Medal.

Lovejoy was principal speaker last night at the 71st annual commencement exercises held in the school gymnasium. Another highlight of the occasion was the annual award ceremony which, Earl F. Groner, superintendent of schools, said, would include the seven top awards. All other academic awards were made at the annual "Moving Up Day" exercises June 4.

Lovejoy, former educator and past general secretary for Rotary International, impressed the audience with a series of rapid fire anecdotes which all had hidden morals.

He told of the building of the St. Babon Church in Ghent, Belgium, which took 197 years to erect. "They didn't build it for themselves, they did it for those who came after them," he said. "And, the man who planted seedlings on top of a mountain which would be useful as lumber in 100 years. He didn't do it for himself, he did it for those who came after him," Lovejoy pointed out.

Lovejoy interspersed his comments with rapid stories of people he knew, "typewriter irritator" he aided in becoming a woman doctor; a high school graduate who wanted to play the harmonica, and a boy in a geometry class who wanted to run a restaurant.

"Do It Best" "Your obligation to these taxpayers, and the Commonwealth," he emphasized, "is to do what you want to do and do it the very best."

Lovejoy told of a dog which crossed the Berlin wall and how he was cared for behind the Iron Curtain. He was groomed, fed and bathed. The American dogs wanted to know why he had crossed the barrier if he was so well cared for on the other side. "Because," the dog said, "I wanted to bark."

The point of the anecdote, Lovejoy underlined for the audience was the freedom to be what you wanted to be and enjoy doing it. The freedom to "bark" was only one of the many freedoms which were responsible for putting the graduating class of 120 students where they were.

Hansen spoke on the best age to be as viewed by himself and classmates. "The best time of all is the present," he told the assembly.

There were things to be said for all ages, he said, but for all, the best time was the present. In closing, Hansen made the presentation of the Class of 1962 gift to the school which is a sum of money to be used to purchase a public address system for the school athletic field.

Carol Ann Regina Sabinsky, who plans to become a woman doctor, was salutatorian. She discussed the service to mankind by the medical profession and said each member of the class in his or her own way, would best serve humanity.

Miss Sabinsky was awarded the Kiwanis Citation and the Lillian S. Kintner $1,500 scholarship. Diane Bensinger received the Van D. Yetter award for interest in government.

PTA Award The PTA's Dr. Robert Brown award was given to Patricia Everitt.

Warren F. Loney, Jr., received the Varsity "S" award for being outstanding athlete of the class. John Pyle directed the high school band ensemble for the procession.

Numa Snyder directed the mixed chorus, which included 16 members of the graduating class. In two selections.

Rev. Roger C. Stinson gave the invocation after the seniors had reached their seats, wearing maroon gowns and mortarboards. Members of the National Honor Society wore gold stoles with the society emblem. Each senior and member of the faculty received a white rose, the class flower. Miss Julia Sieg, retired mathematics teacher, wore a corsage of white orchids.

The introduction of graduates was made by Alfred W. Munson, high school principal and Groner presented the diplomas.

Monroe TB Society Lists Expenditures For 1961

MRS. Estelle Fleming, executive director of the Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society, yesterday issued a report of expenditures of Christmas seal money during 1961.

A total of $11,475.52 was collected during the campaign. Of 9,994 letters sent, 5,667 persons responded with contributions.

Largest item in the budget was health education, which cost $3,188.96. This included motion picture films, pamphlets and posters to school and college students and medical abstracts to physicians.

It also included two scholarships, one to a physician to attend a symposium on tuberculosis and other pulmonary diseases at Saranac Lake and the other to a teacher to attend the Lehigh University community-school health education workshop.

Driver Fined In 3-Car Accident

NO ONE was injured in a three-car accident on Chipperfield Dr. in Stroud Township at 6:05 p.m. yesterday.

H.W. Tebbis, township police chief, said a car driven by Nelson Singer, 21, Readers, and owned by Lena Singer, 927 Ehler St., Stroudsburg, struck parked cars operated by Betty J. Blythe, 37, of 300 Fifth St., Waverly, Ohio, and James L. Ace, 34, Stroudsburg, RD 5.

Tebbis said the woman, traveling east on the street, saw Singer's car approaching her and pulled off the road in a vain attempt to avoid the collision. The car she was driving is owned by John R. Serfass, Stroudsburg, RD 5.

Damage was estimated at $50 to the Serfass car. The other two vehicles were demolished.

Tebbis charged Singer with driving without a license. He pleaded guilty at a hearing before Mrs. Ruth E. Miller, Stroud Township justice of the peace, and was fined $25 and costs after admitting it was his second offense of a similar nature.

Symbol Of Freedom

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Those are stirring words . . . words which have a special meaning for Americans every day of the year, but especially tomorrow, which is designated nationally as Flag Day.

Danger may lie on every side, but to those who can sincerely repeat the pledge of allegiance, the future of our country is secure and holds no terrors.

In less than two centuries of existence, the Flag of the United States has become a worldwide symbol of freedom. To us Americans, it represents the four basic freedoms guaranteed in the Bill of Rights which we can recite so glibly yet cherish so lightly.

In recent years, however, the American Flag has become the beacon of freedom and liberty for all of the world. In countries where freedom is denied, it has become the symbol of hope for the future, and of help from those who believe in the principles it represents.

Yet, when the time comes for individual Americans to show their colors and proudly watch them wave in front of their homes and places of business, there is little effort expended to do it. Remember how few flags were to be seen flying on Memorial Day, or any other recent national holiday? There weren't too many!

Tomorrow is a day set aside to particularly display our National Emblem, as to exemplify the faith we have in the glorious principles it represents. It is a day to prominently and proudly recount our blessings as individuals, and as a nation.

Let's see every home and business with colors flying tomorrow!

Opinions Of Other Editors

A Little Difficult To Understand

The more we learn about Act 442, commonly called the Prevailing Wage Act, the more confused we become. A good example of this may be seen in the wage rates for common labor for two different jobs within the county.

According to information at hand, common labor on work which is under consideration by the county commissioners for the Somerset County Court House, is scheduled to receive $2.67 per hour. Workers on the same classification of work for the proposed county home are to receive $2.81½.

It is inconceivable that common labor in Berlin should be rated at 14½ cents per hour more than common labor in Somerset. On previous occasions, we have pointed out that the state's payrolls in Somerset County are far below this figure. For an example we might cite highway department workers, a number of whom receive $1.71 per hour.

This newspaper would like to have the Department of Labor and Industry explain how it arrives at its figures and why it has scheduled common labor for the county home which is to be built in Berlin to be paid a higher rate than common labor on a remodeling and repair job which is contemplated at the county seat.

This doesn't make sense to a large number of Somerset countians. In fact, we will go so far as to say that it doesn't make sense to any one with whom this writer has discussed the matter.

Something must be done about Act 442 and its administration. We believe that this is a more vital issue in home rule than the school redistricting act with which we have also taken issue.

The Timorous

The great Robert Burns spoke of our times in these two stanzas:

"Wee, sleekit, cow'rin, tim'rous beastie,
O what a panic's in thy breastie!

Thou need na start awa sae hasty,
Wi' bickering brattle!
I wad be laith to rin and chase thee,
Wi' murd'ring patte!

"Still thou art blest, compared wi' me!
The present only toucheth thee;
But, och! I backward cast me
e'e
On prospects drear!
An' forward, tho' I canna see,
I guess and fear!"

It is the enormous fear of failure that besets our people. They fear war. They fear the bomb. They fear the fallout. They fear another Depression. They fear the consequences of history.

When a people develops a fear psychosis, there are always rational and irrational factors in the situation. We have been at war since 1914 and war has eaten away our substance. It is impossible to assess the indirect cost of our wars; the direct cost of close to 100 billion dollars year after year is beyond our capacity to sustain.

As a result we have lost our gold reserve and our currency is depreciated. This no one can deny. Despite upwards of $100 billion of aid to friend and foe, we still have more enemies than friends and we have not yet learned that friendship cannot be bought.

In the economic field, wars and government controls have produced a mixed economy. Not only is the government engaged in vast enterprises formerly reserved to the private citizen but the controls set up since 1933 and greatly developed since then, in effect, make the government a partner in all basic enterprises. To this must be added that as the principal customer of many industries, departments of the government set policies, determine prices, enforce labor practices, etc.

This is one side of the coin. The other side is equally important.

We have managed since 1933 to go through these wars and economic down and ups and downs again, without losing a single civil liberty guaranteed by the Constitution. Many Americans believe that they enjoy more rights than the Constitution provides for. If we stick to the Bill of Rights, we have a sure guide as to what we may or may not do.

For instance, while I have the right to refer to an imaginary alterer of public opinion as a mouse with the mumps, that being a nondescriptive, live and let live expression, I may not say that he is a thief unless I can prove it in a Court of Law. It is possible to call everyone, whom I dislike, a Communist, but I challenged I must prove my point. I have the right to like or dislike people individually or collectively, but I may not take such actions against them as to deprive them of their Constitutional Rights.

When the individual is assured his liberties, he lives in a whole-some country. It is difficult to understand why so many curious movements have suddenly appeared in this country and why they have such large followings. For example, although Dick Nixon won in California, the John Birch Society produced a large vote.

Actually, this country is at this moment in a hopeful state. The Cold War is lessening its ugliness. All the Communist countries are suffering from economic disorders and there is little question but that Khrushchev is finding his operations too costly and he does not know how to bail himself out.

We have established strength in Berlin and in Southeast Asia. We have gone through a tough stock market debacle, but we were able to survive its damage. We are over-produced and while prices are formed internationally, costs are determined within the United States.

Things can happen because of the psychological factors of fear. There are those who are genuinely frightened of the President's pronounced policies. There are others who project those policies beyond the President's stated intentions. There are others engaged in a legitimate Republican campaign to defeat the Democrats in 1962. And then there are the professional oppositionists who make a career of being against whatever is until they turn about and are for what is.

But fear does not give a country strength. When things go wrong, we must straighten out the situation and fight on. We do not worship a man as the Germans worshipped Hitler. Nor do we hate a man as the Italians, in the end, hated Mussolini or as Khrushchev hates Stalin.

Senatorial Astigmatism

The Pennsylvania Story

Supreme Court Vacancy

By Mason Denison
HARRISBURG — With a vacancy on Pennsylvania's Supreme Court and the possibility strong of it being up for filling by Pennsylvania's electorate this fall, the issue is worth more than a stock market shudder or a passing glance.

The Supreme Court itself is the final word — courtwise — insofar as Pennsylvania matters are concerned (outside of course those that may be worthy of appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.)

Pennsylvania's Supreme Court justices — understandably — do not like to think of themselves as "political candidates" even though they do have to be elected to their 21-year $32,000-a-year post. Yet the political complexion always turns out to be an issue.

Races for such judicial posts however usually are tame affairs with candidate chaff for the most part revolving around legal mumbblings, views and concepts — certainly of little stirring interest to the average voter who after a hard day in the pits is more concerned with digging his golf ball out of a sandtrap.

What does this mean? In terms of political complexion of Pennsylvania's highest court the outcome will have a most interesting hue.

The six members of the court at present are divided equally between three Republicans and three Democrats, although at the time of Justice Bok's death it stood four-three in favor of Democrats.

This has no particular significance other than from the standpoint of the interquack; their deliberations theoretically are not affected one way or the other — and it is unlikely Pennsylvania will witness any yakings or rantings and ravings as befell the U.S. Supreme Court back in the 1930's when then President Franklin D. Roosevelt was accused of trying to "pack" the court to suit his own wishes!

Pennsylvania Democrats are meeting today in State Committee session at which time the subject of who and whether or not to select a judicial candidate unquestionably will be kicked around. (Republicans gather for their judicial festive board meeting June 16.)

Curiously, Democrats when they select their Supreme Court candidate will be literally fighting to keep it away from being a Philadelphia — the ticket this fall is already too overloaded with Philadelphians.

On the other hand, Republicans somewhat paradoxically, will be fighting somewhat in that direction — inasmuch as none of the statewide candidates hail from the Quaker City!

This is not to say GOPsters will definitely pull from the City of Brotherly Love — far from it; the point we have been making is simply that strong pressures are being exerted in that direction.

Geographical considerations aside, from the Republican standpoint unquestionably the most outstanding candidate they could produce is current Superior Court Judge Robert E. Woodworth of Dauphin County, who earlier this year was fluffed off the GOP gubernatorial candidate roster.

As a former member of the Legislature, State Attorney General, Common Pleas Court Judge, and currently State Superior Court judge, the venerable Mr. Woodworth seemingly would be a judicial natural for Republicans (as a gubernatorial candidate — no).

But — in the end, it all depends on the course of action to be taken by Democratic Governor David L. Lawrence; whether or not he acts before the August 17 deadline!

on the fifth, or refurbishing the family jitney.

However this year the story is a little different in several respects — and worthy of consideration by one and all.

In the first place, assuming Governor Lawrence appoints an interim justice — prior to August 17 — both parties then will name candidates to fill the unexpired 17-year term of Justice Curtis Bok who died recently.

The Supreme Court candidates then will go on the November 6 general election ballot along with the candidates for Governor, U. S. Senate, Lieutenant-Governor and Secretary of Internal Affairs.

Significantly, whoever wins the judicial race this November will not be carried into office by his own dint — but rather will ride along with whichever candidate wins the governorship.

What does this mean? In terms of political complexion of Pennsylvania's highest court the outcome will have a most interesting hue.

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

If Ray Silver, the energetic Stroud Twp. fireman had his way, the coming Four-County Firemen's Convention would be billed, "the greatest show on earth."

Maybe Smokey Stover Silver is right. According to advance publicity the Stroud men and women have put together one of the finest two days of events for the general public's consumption.

The convention will be held in this territory, Friday and Saturday, Friday an all-star show, plus a banquet will highlight the opening. Saturday probably one of the largest parades ever to roam the streets of the Stroudsburgs will prevail.

This group of firemen from Stroud Twp. deserve our wholehearted support. Not only because they are lifting the spirit of the region on a weekend that otherwise might have been dull. But because they are volunteers attempting to make their fire-fighting organization bigger and better than any others.

These boys who cover a vast area are a concerned lot. They want the best to take care of you and yours' homes, land and businesses. They deserve the best too.

Friday and Saturday is one small way we have of saying thanks for their unselfish efforts of the past. The weekend also is the time for us to show our appreciation for deeds which oftentimes went beyond the call of duty.

A fair idea of the competency of the Stroud firemen was the way detailed plans were put in force for their two-day convention. No loose leaf was left floating alone. No stone was left unturned. In other words the men of Stroud blended — with hard work and many hours — a program that should send the delegates away shouting, "Those fellows in the mountains sure know how to do things up right."

No doubt Fire Chief Les Rice — who is also president of the Four-County Firemen's Association — have seconded this retort countless times following life-saving, home-saving and land-saving acts of bygone days.

It is well to remember your support of this organization is not their gain. Your support is your gain.

Mrs. Fraunces had a hard time locating her spouse at a big party, but finally spotted him, ecstatically festooned over a limb of tree in the garden. "It's our signal to bid you a dieu," she told her hostess. "My husband is beginning his imitation of Spanish moss."

The Allen-Scott Report

President's Wife Expecting Again?

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington, June 13 — Intimates of President and Mrs. Kennedy are convinced they are on the track of an exciting White House secret — that the First Lady is expecting again.

The close friends admit their belief is predicated on an assortment of assumptions. But they consider them well-founded. Significantly, while members of the presidential staff are professing ignorance, they don't deny this joyous possibility. They merely claim to know nothing about it.

Bases of the White House intimates' theory that Mrs. Kennedy is having another baby are:

Inside word that she consults a leading gynecologist on her frequent trips to New York for the announced purpose of visiting her ailing father-in-law, former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy, who is undergoing rehabilitation for a severe stroke. According to some of the close friends, these hospital visits are also being used to divert attention from her own medical consultations.

A report reputedly originating from a family source, but not wholly verified, that the First Lady has already ordered her pregnancy wardrobe.

Certain personal indications claimed to have been noted by women who have seen Mrs. Kennedy with some frequency in recent weeks.

Halt of all talk about the First Lady's taking an active part in this year's crucial congressional elections. Some months ago, the Democratic National Committee spread a report that she contemplated joining in her husband's fall campaigning. But now, no one around the Committee professes to know anything about that.

The President's cryptic reply to a foreign visitor who inquired about his family, "They're fine. Growing and expanding — we hope."

Mrs. Kennedy, 32, has always stressed that her official role is second to being a wife and mother.

John, Jr., brother of Caroline, was born on Thanksgiving Day 1960, by Caesarian section. According to a relative, the President and First Lady not long ago indicated they would like to have another son.

FROM THE HORSE'S MOUTH — Yugoslav Foreign Minister Koca Popovic's visit to Washington had a lot to do with the Senate's surprise enactment of restrictions on more economic and military aid to his Communist regime.

Popovic himself triggered this crackdown at an unpublicized meeting with members of the Senate and House foreign affairs committees.

This session was arranged at the suggestion of the State Department, when Popovic came to the Capital for talks with Secretary Dean Rusk after a tour of Brazil, Peru and Chile. In the discussion with the lawmakers, Popovic was bluntly asked about his country's relations with Russia and the continuance of Communism in Yugoslavia.

Graphically illustrative of this significant questioning and its subsequent effect on the Senate's voting on the foreign aid bill is the following:

"Is it the policy of your government to improve relations with the Soviet?" asked Senator Bourke Hickenlooper, Iowa, ranking GOP member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

"Yes," replied Popovic. "Our people have much in common with Russian people, and it is to the mutual advantage of both to improve relations. We are endeavoring to increase our trade and other ties. We consider that proper and for the benefit of both countries."

"Can you tell us whether there is any extensive desire among your people to change their form of government?" continued Hickenlooper.

"There is not," asserted Popovic. "Our socialist form of government is widely popular and is going to continue for a long time. There will be no change during the lifetime of this or the next generation, I would say."

The Yugoslav leader also was questioned about a plan to establish a trading bloc of neutral African and Latin American countries as a counter to the European Common Market. He stated this is under discussion but no decisions have been reached.

"Are you trying to develop trade with Latin American countries?" asked Representative Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

"We are seeking markets wherever we can find them," explained Popovic. "We are most eager to increase trade with Brazil, Peru, Chile and possibly other Latin American countries in the near future. Like every country, we are trying to expand our foreign trade."

"Is Yugoslavia planning to join the Warsaw (Soviet bloc) Pact?" continued Morgan.

"We are not," replied Popovic. "We see no need for that. Our relations with the members of this alliance are improving. Marshal Tito is determined to be friendly with both the East and West. He feels strongly that is the soundest course to pursue."

"But you are increasing your ties and relations with Russia," declared Morgan.

"We are expanding our trade," declared Popovic. "We also want to increase our trade with the United States. We are very eager to do that and earnestly hope nothing will prevent it."

"That may depend largely on you," dryly remarked another committeeaman.

COLD SHOULDER — The malodorous Billie Sol Estes scandal is putting a political hex on another member of Congress. Like Representative H. Carl Anderson, R-Minn., who publicly complained party colleagues are cold-shouldering him because he had been linked with the Texas operator, Senator Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., is saying privately he is getting the same treatment since it became known he accepted funds from Estes for a radio program . . . It was bound to happen. An animal book is being published titled "Macaroni." It was written by Mrs. June Dutton, wife of able and popular Assistant Secretary of State Frederick Dutton . . .

A poll of Democratic congressional leaders rates Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg as their most popular cabinet member. Explained House Floor Leader Carl Albert, Okla., "Everybody likes him because he knows the art of compromise."

Second most popular is Defense Secretary McNamara. . . . Most unusual request Representative Joe Evans, D-Tenn., has ever received from a constituent was for a gold brick from Ft. Knox. A banker in his district wanted it as a special display for his bank's 50th anniversary. Wrote the banker to Evans, "We got some gold coins by buying them in Zurich, Switzerland. I think it's ridiculous having to buy gold with American money from a foreign bank. Why can't we borrow a gold brick from Ft. Knox? We don't care how you manage it so long as it is legal even if it takes an Act of Congress."

Realm Of Stamps

By Ray Patton
The United States postal history dates back to 1863 when the General Court of Massachusetts ordered that the house of Richard Fairbanks was to be the official distribution point for mail going overseas.

In 1891 Thomas Neale was, by Royal Patent, granted authority for the establishment and control of an American Post (mail) and in 1933 Andrew Hamilton was appointed the first Colonial Postmaster-General.

In 1707, control of the Post was purchased from Neale by the English Government which held it until the Revolution.

Under the new order Benjamin Franklin was appointed the First Postmaster by the Continental Congress in 1775. "Stampless Covers" are the envelopes or sheets marked "Paid" or "Due" either with pen and ink or handstamps of various designs.

Postal rates for this period were very high, for a single page letter weighing a half ounce or less: under thirty miles 6 cents, 80 miles 10 cents over 400 miles 25 cents. There was an additional cost for every weight of paper and if the letter weighed more than an ounce the rate was four times the normal.

Letters usually consisted of a single sheet of paper, folded so that the address could be written on the outside and the fold sealed with sealing wax.

In 1845 several "Postmasters Provisionals" showed up. These were stamps issued by the various postmasters in the larger cities at their own expense and are among the rare issues of the world. They started in New York in 1845 and other postmasters followed in 1846 and these were used until the United States Government issued the first stamps in July of 1847.

Club News
The Monroe Stamp Club will resume regular meetings starting the third Wednesday in September.

During the Summer months may drop in at Ray Patton's any Wednesday evening for the informal swap sessions, as we have done in the last several years.

The club expresses thanks to all the members for their contributions of lots for the stamp auction held June 6 — it was a huge success. Also thanks to all those who made it possible for the fine party we had following the auction.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

It's been a long time since I have allowed myself the luxury of easy tears — and they are a luxury like a steam bath or a back massage leaving you cleansed of tensions whether caused by joy or frustration or just plain being tired.

But a sniffling, red-eyed, red-nosed reporter would be small asset to a newspaper. One way to break yourself of the habit is to leave the handkerchief out of your pocket-book. I've discovered, since it is practically impossible to keep feeling sentimental when you're concentrating on trying not to sniff — audibly, that is.

However, it doesn't always work as some of the Laurel Blossom Princesses discovered yesterday when they were caught short by the sentiment of parting. The handkerchief I now am strong enough to carry certainly came in handy, and after it had made the rounds I presented it all soaked with Laurel tears to Sally Ferree, for whom most of them had been shed anyway, since in the week she has housemothered all 23 girls she has become very dear to them.

Each year, everybody seems to agree, the girls get prettier and nicer, and it is hard to see them go — and hard for them to get back to summer jobs, or summer school, or to being just a member of the family after being royalty for so long.

But in the midst of all the sentiment, I found time to take note of the swan-song dessert in case you might like to copy it: cream puffs they were with the top cut in two and stuck in like wings and an S-shaped cookie for the swan's head and neck. Simple but most effective.

I was feeling rather royal myself, briefly, when I found myself at the table with the Queen, the honorary princess, the host princess, Mrs. John Crandall and Fred Waring. However, two pages to fill and the kitchen floor to scrub are the quickest way to get over a delusion.

Laurel Blossom Princesses Farewell To Poconos At Luncheon At Shawnee

To the sentimental, even the Pocono skies seemed to be weeping softly yesterday at the prospect of the departure of the Laurel Blossom Princesses of 1962.

However, the rainfall was brief and the parched Poconos might have benefited more from the flood of sentimental tears of the princesses themselves which threatened to outdo the rain at the farewell luncheon held at Shawnee Inn.

Fred Waring, and Shawnee's guest Linda Krumboldt, chosen Queen of the Laurel Blossom Festival by her fellow princesses, were hosts at the luncheon climaxed with swans in a swan-song dessert.

After the luncheon Sally Ferree, festival director, presented each girl with a silver charm bracelet, bearing her name and the date; and a silver angel with more personalized charms representing the hobbies and interests of the girls from 23 colleges who were guests of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

William Altier, bureau president, paid tribute to Mrs. Ferree as director of the festival, to Reese Dengler and Harry Ahnert, co-chairmen, and to the girls themselves whose cooperation he hailed in poetry.

Host princess Sandra Carlton of East Stroudsburg State College and Nuala Downey, honorary princess, from New Zealand, who were on hand to welcome the girls last Thursday were also there to say goodbye, meeting the parents and friends who had come to take the girls home, autographing pictures in the Laurel Blossom program.

That program, in addition to the public functions such as the Laurel Blossom Cotillion, the "Salute to the Seasons" musical and the coronation, also included many parties for the girls themselves, given by their host hotels and by other attractions of the Poconos.

Those festivities included a luncheon at Buck Hill Falls; a buffet at the Birchwood; dinner at Split Rock; a tour of Winona and Bushkill Falls with a barbecue at the Bushkill falls; a swimming party and dinner at the Fernwood and dancing at Vacation Valley, in addition to the welcome dinner at the Penn-Stroud and the farewell at Shawnee.

The Laurel Blossom feature

page of the Daily Record was presented to the girls to add to the other mementos of their big week. As one Princess said through her tears at parting, "Do you suppose if I flunked a couple of my courses, I could come back next year?"

Acme Hose Aux. Supper Thurs.

A pot-luck supper will be held by the Ladies Aux. of the Acme Hose Co. preceding their last meeting of the summer on Thursday night at 6:30.

The supper will be held at the new Fireman's building on Day St. Each member is asked to bring a covered dish and table service.

The auxiliary is now selling dishcloths, terry dish towels and ironing board covers which may be obtained from any member.

Ever-Welcome Class

The Ever Welcome Class of Christ Hamilton Church will meet on Friday night at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Kunkle.

Hospital Aux. Membership Now At 151

The Auxiliary of the General Hospital, 64 strong, crowded the summer home of Mrs. Elmer Christine on Mount Nebo Road yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Thomas Brietweiser introduced two new members, Mrs. Herman Crisman and Miss Julia A. Sieg, bringing the total membership to 151.

Mrs. William Gorman, president, reported on the three-day convention of the Tri-State Assn., Middle Atlantic Hospitals, held in Atlantic City and the local auxiliary voted to join the Northeastern Assn. of Hospitals.

An invitation was also extended to attend the Garden Fete, at the Hazleton State Hospital on June 21 at 1 p.m. by Mrs. Kathleen Goldsworth, president of the board.

It was announced that volunteers are needed on Mondays and Thursdays for the room carts at the hospital, a service directed by Miss Ellen Hoffman.

A message from Sally Ferree was read, announcing that all booths for the annual Antiques Show had been sold.

Mrs. Alphonse Meyers installed the following officers for two-year terms: first vice president, Mrs. Raymond Arnold; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. Lynn Lantz; treasurer, Mrs. Fred Davis; financial secretary, Mrs. Evangeline Henry.

Mrs. Horace Walters was elected a director and Mrs. Ronald Kelsey a member of the Hospital Shop advisory board for three year terms.

Named in charge of flowers for the Antiques Show were Mrs. Charles Fisher, Mrs. John Hauser, and Mrs. Fred Davis.

Mrs. Joseph Swaine, Mountain-home, announced that she was making round, smoked pillow tops as a project to add to the hospital fund.

Mrs. Irving Foltz was a guest at the meeting which was followed by refreshments. Assisting Mrs. Christine were Mrs. Aphonse Meyers, Mrs. Fred Davis, Mrs. Charles Fisher, Mrs. Charles Reinhardt and Mrs. John Hauser.

Miss Armitage Honored At Bridal Shower

A bridal shower was held in honor of Miss Joan Armitage on June 7 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Dennis, Bossardsville. Miss Armitage will become the bride of John Klingner on July 7.

The party was given by her attendants: Verna Dennis, Harriett Kassay and Lila Swink. Decorations were in pink, blue, mint and white wedding bells. Games were enjoyed under the supervision of Miss Kassay.

Guests included Miss Emmerick and Mrs. Estella Emmerick, Gertrude Nunn, Mrs. A. Kassay, Mrs. Olive Dennis, Mrs. Helen Poortstra, Mrs. Carol Ann Dailey, Miss Helen Poortstra, Miss Marie Sipthoth, Mrs. Corona Kaiser, Mrs. Sara Blakeslee, Mrs. Shirley Buskirk, Mrs. Janice Muller, Mrs. Elsie Van Why, Mrs. Charles Armitage, Mrs. Ginny Price, Mrs. Dot McMillan, Miss Lois Getz, Mrs. Avis Blakeslee, Mrs. Judy Triola and Mrs. Ruth Heller.

Also sending gifts were Margaret Andrew, Judy Fry, Mrs. Ruth Sipthoth, Mrs. Dorothea Blakeslee, Mrs. Getz and Miss Vee Blakeslee.

Schedule Outlined By Altar, Rosary

Brookheadsville — At the last meeting of the Altar and Rosary Society of Our Lady Queen of Peace Church for the season, plans were made for the summer bake sales. They will start July 1 and continue through Labor Day each Sunday after the 9 a.m. mass in the auditorium of the church.

Mrs. Charlotte Koslowski, Mrs. Julie Cramer and Mrs. Marie Young will be in charge of the bake sales.

Members also voted to hold weekly social dances each Wednesday night in the church auditorium during the summer. A summer picnic will be held Sunday, July 15 at Hickory Run State Park for parishioners and their friends.

Mrs. George Talpas presided at the meeting. Mrs. Marie Schultz, president of the Monroe-Pike Deanery of Catholic Women announced an executive board meeting to be held Tuesday, June 26 at Evergreen Lodge, Matamoras.

On June 29 Rev. Robert Galligan will conduct a holy hour service in the church from 8 to 9 p.m.

An auction sale will be held July 13 and 14 at the Pocono Mission Schools for the benefit of the school. Members were asked to contribute any saleable articles except clothing.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Helen Stroud, Mrs. Mary Young and Mrs. Marie Schultz.

Garden Club Board Plans Luncheon

The June luncheon of the Monroe County Garden Club will be held at Mountain Manor on June 21. Plans for the luncheon were discussed at the meeting of the executive board held recently at the YMCA.

Cards will follow the luncheon with members asked to bring their own cards.

The board also voted to accept an invitation from The Daily Record to have one of its members prepare an arrangement each month to be featured as an article of general interest to women.

The members also voted to have a resolution of respect drawn up for Miss Fannie Swartsfelder, a charter member, who died this month to be presented at the general meeting.

Cherry Valley WSCS

The Cherry Valley Women's Society of Christian Service will meet Thursday night at 7 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Keiser.

Miss Blount To Be Bride In France

Mr. and Mrs. James Blount of Stroudsburg RD 5, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Elizabeth, to Jerry M. Ballard of Miami, Fla. Mr. Blount is liaison officer at Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

Miss Blount is a graduate of the Immaculate Heart Academy, Fountain Springs, and is serving in the Women's Army Corps, stationed in Orleans, France.

Her fiancé is serving in the U. S. Army and is also stationed in Orleans, where he will stay for the next two years.

They plan to be married in France in October, and her parents will go to Europe for the wedding.

Legion Aux. Works With Young Girls

The American Legion Aux. of George N. Kemp Post reviewed some of its work with young people at the meeting held at the Legion Home in East Stroudsburg.

A girl from Stroudsburg High School will this year be sent to the Girls State Camp by the local unit. Medals and awards have been presented to outstanding eighth grade girls in Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, and St. Matthews.

Mrs. Hazel Achterman, reporting on the Four-County Council meeting, reported that they had requested used eyeglass frames to be used for the needy. Knitters have been requested to make bandages for the Carville Leprosorium.

It was announced that all hospital equipment of the unit is now in use. In addition the auxiliary is providing a quart of milk a day for a local child.

They remembered Gold Star Mothers on Mother's Day. Reports were given on the banquets and wedding reception.

The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Stella Plattenburg; first vice president, Mrs. J. Schmidt; second vice president, Mrs. A. Reinsch; recording secretary, Mrs. H. B. Heffer; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charles Reid; treasurer, Mrs. R. C. Blitz, Jr.; historian, Mrs. L. A. Achterman; chaplain, Mrs. John Becker; sergeants at Arms, Mrs. Gertrude Currier and Mrs. Bertha Taffinger.

Delegates named to the Department Convention in Philadelphia in July are Mrs. Plattenburg and Mrs. Schmidt with alternates Mrs. Blitz and Mrs. Reid.

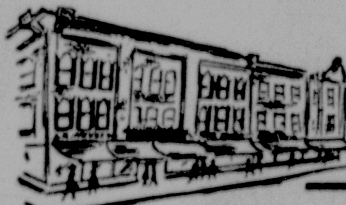

Refreshments were served by Mrs. L. A. Achterman, Mrs. J. Altomose and Mrs. L. Miller.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

Hi there!—and if you don't think I'm busy, guess again! This evening our big Hadassah-Wyckoff fashion show at Tamiment-in-the-Poconos begins at 8:30 o'clock . . . but this column is being written Monday, and here I sit in my office as wringing wet as though I'd just emerged from a Turkish bath. Know why???? I did just emerge from a Turkish bath . . . Bill Wells "suggested" (in the way an executive usually suggests—with a smile and a cheery, "Of course, you can count on me for assistance") that Amy Eilenberger and I crawl into the front window and set up a display of Israeli fashions.

Amy was a logical choice . . . she's artistic. Maybe I was a logical choice too . . . I'm tall. I'm scared to death to climb a ladder or stand up on a stool, but with my height you almost never need to do so. You simply stand tiptoe and stretch. So, Amy and I made a fairly good team . . . but it was hot, our tempers were easily ruffled, and SAY—whatever DID happen to Bill Wells???? After it was all over, he said our window looked good. Perhaps it's a good thing he did say that. Amy and I were as hot headed by that time as we were drenched, and in no mood to be asked to do it over! Bill made it up to me though . . . very nicely he offered to prepare my list for the fitting, and said not to worry about it—which was fine. I had enough to worry about just getting something to eat. At 3 o'clock, when my head started aching, I realized I hadn't even stopped for lunch. Hope my dress still fits tonight. And hope you'll be there . . . below are three chairmen, ready to greet you this evening at Tamiment . . .

Rear: Joan Sommer and Ericka Liebert, two of the co-chairmen. Seated, Phyllis Rubin, chairman of models.

Both photos are by Irving Sommer.

P.S.—Just found out what happened to Bill—he was giving blood to the Red Cross, so all is forgiven.

Let's Talk Fashions

After the hectic pace of Laurel Blossom Week and graduations, the place most of our customers wanted most to go was to bed. And we've got the prettiest going-to-bed ensembles you'd ever want to see.

As a switch from Laurel, they're embroidery all over with roses so real you can almost smell them. On baby doll pajamas, on shifts and matching negligees, separately or together they make a wonderful graduation gift.

And how we know that they are really appreciated is because the girls themselves are investing some of their graduation money in them to save for wowing the dormitory when they go away to college next Fall.

And speaking of going away, we've some handsome seersucker suits just made for well-groomed traveling. There are some two piece dark suits that are perfect for women who don't want to spend their evenings drip-drying, although the seersuckers would do that, too.

Our favorites are the three piece suits in the traditional grey and white or brown and white with the sleeveless matching overblouses for cool crisp riding, and the jackets for those air-conditioned restaurants you'll be eating in.

To bed or to Boston, we've got the clothes to do it in style.

FAMILY ON THE MOVE: Leaving today by plane for California and then by boat for Japan is MP Richard Davis, his wife, Louise, and his daughters, Rosemary and Deborah.

Local Family Leaving For Duty In Japan

Richard David Edwards and his family will leave on Wednesday on the first lap of their journey which will take them to Japan for a tour of duty. They will fly to California and then to Japan by boat.

Edwards, RA 1 3526715 is an Army MP, and this is his second tour of duty in the Far East having served previously in Korea. However, this is the first trip to the Orient for his wife, Louise, and their daughters, Deborah, 3; and Rosemary, 16 months.

Edwards is the son of Hilda Mickey of 118 Ransberry Ave., and a grandson of David Jennings.

School Transportation

Delaware Water Gap — Village children from the age of 4 on up are invited to attend the Daily Vacation Bible School in Stroudsburg, which begins on Thursday. They are asked to meet at 8:30 at the Water Gap Methodist Church for transportation.

Bouyant Arlene Francis Speaks On Personality

By Roberta Fleming Roesch
"If you were an ordinary career girl instead of a star, what would you do to stand out as a personality even in a routine job?" I recently asked actress, television star and radio personality Arlene Francis.

She thought about my question a moment as we sat together at Sardi's where, only minutes before, she'd finished her daily radio show.

"A lot of basic things apply to any career," she said finally, looking at me with the smile and sparkle that are as much a part of her own personality as the wedding anniversary heart she wears around her neck.

Basic Factor
"Certainly determination to develop yourself as a personality and get ahead in your work is a main basic factor," she continued, while we sipped coffee together at a table beneath some of the celebrity caricatures created for Sardi's walls. "But determination is no good by itself. You have to put it into action. You can't just want to be something."

"Besides building determination into your personality," she continued, "it's terribly important to get yourself prepared for the next step in your career so you're ready for the right opportunity when it comes."

Versatility Paid Off
When I asked her for an example of how this had worked in her own career, Miss Francis recalled the days when she began observing that the people who were getting the most parts in the theater and on radio were the people who were the most versatile.

Consequently, she began studying accents — which meant that if she had to go to a movie 21 times in order to observe and study the accent on one of the performers, she went 21 times. "I used to go to see almost every foreign actress performing in New York," she explained and, as she talked, the buoyancy and sparkle that's so outstanding on television was equally outstanding in her conversation.

"Then I'd go home and read Shakespeare with all kinds of different accents. But it ultimately paid off because after I studied Russian accents I learned there was a part for a girl with a Russian accent. And when I went to audition for the part, my practice with accents got it for me."

"I hate to say the things that have already been said so many times before about the physical presentation you give on your job," she went on, changing the subject, "but the reason these things have been said so often is because they are so important. For instance, speech is important. You need to care about it and emulate the good speech you admire in others. The way you dress is important, too. For any career you should learn to select and wear clothes that help your good points stand out while they minimize your defects. Developing good carriage and a graceful way of moving help you stand out, also."

Inner Qualities
"Then, while you're developing these outward things, develop the going to sleep when they get home; chiffon pie suits them fine. Bridge players in their forties are apt to count calories and the hostess is thoughtful enough to serve a beautiful fruit salad platter with little or no dressing. When the girls creep into their fifties, hostesses are tired of fussing and will tend to serve something sweet, but simple, such as a brownie wedge capped with vanilla ice cream.

They still want to play by the time they reach sixty, but they're meeting afterwards now instead of night time. Refreshments are reduced to a snack, maybe a good fruit punch and assorted crackers. I'm not going to tell what age group this recipe comes from, but Ella Mae Kilson had her bridge club sighing as they ate this luncheon pie which is light enough for a summer dessert. Regardless of the category you are in, forget the calories and make this for friends or the family. It's the best chocolate pie I've ever eaten, and you'll be sorry if you don't try it.

Don't let the length of the recipe scare you. Ella Mae used to be one who shied away from fancy pies until a good neighbor and excellent cook, Jane Manley, gave her lessons. Now she tries them all!

Chocolate Pie

2 cups milk
2 cup sugar
One-third cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 beaten eggs
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 square unsweetened chocolate

Scald milk in top of double boiler. Combine sugar, flour, and salt, and gradually stir into milk; cook over boiling water until thick, stirring constantly. Stir a little of the mixture into the beaten eggs, then pour back and cook for three minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add butter and vanilla.

To one-half of the mixture (1 cup) add the melted chocolate and stir until well blended. Pour into pie shell and spread evenly. Carefully pour remaining cream filling over top to make the second layer. Chill thoroughly for four hours.

Whip one-half pint of heavy cream until stiff and spread on top of pie. Grate unsweetened chocolate over whipped cream.

AN UNUSUAL NIGHT CHEST is a practical piece in this country casual bedroom group keyed to the young marrieds. Used in place of the usual night stand, it provides practical storage room needed in small homes or apartments. Bubingo veneers are combined with pecan in a light brown finish. A plank effect has been used on a headboard and some door panels to give additional visual interest and texture. From the "County Station" group by Drexel Furniture Co. #11.

Dual-Purpose Furniture Can Play Varied Roles In Newly-Marrieds' Home

"A rose is a rose is a rose . . .", but not so in much of today's furniture. A basic wood piece can find itself playing many roles in a lifetime and getting a new name with each conversion.

The furniture market offers a wide variety of dual-purpose furniture that meets the space and storage requirements in this streamlined country of ours. Entire suites are available for almost every room in the house that will convert in many ways, grow up with families, add, subtract, divide and all but multiply.

Dual-purpose furnishings are not confined to the modern trim-lined designs. Period furniture is available with the same magic ability to change its "colors" as you desire. Many groups allow a selection from several style and size alternates that would go nicely in either traditional, period or modern homes.

Many of these pieces can do everything except convert into the kitchen sink. But you can find an early American dry sink that is adaptable to many things, an "I cocktail service, for example.

Storage

Binary chest, called many can with an addition bench, china, bookcase or hutch. Beds can be bought with that turn them into pier slide-out shelves and drawers for storage, or it could be a fully equipped music center.

Cabinets that fit into any decor may have drawers, slide apart tops and special silver trays. They may be stacked with other units in the same or differing sizes to form a group lining a wall. They may be composed to divide a room.

Servers on wheels may take their place in the living room or dining room, and with their shelves and compartments they serve as storage pieces.

Highboys and lowboys, commodes and buffets, long loved for their practical storage functions, are increasingly decorative and versatile. They will make themselves at home in any area and hold almost anything. Some are scaled to fit under a window or at the foot of a bed while others are found taller and more slender.

If you like, you can change your bedposts when you change the sheets. Alternating bedposts can give you a four-poster, upholding a canopy or short ball posts. Day beds, with all their charm and versatility, are enjoying a revival. One manufacturer is offering a combination single bed, desk and chest all in one unit — a real space saver.

Alternate legs allow many pieces to go up or down. A stylish low cocktail table may become a game table with the substitution of long legs. Dining room and bedroom wood pieces may have their bases on the floor; add the legs and your "new" furniture is four inches higher.

Young Moderns—

Not Alone—Camping Has Its Hazards

By Vivian Brown

Should four teen-age girls go camping with a chaperone? That's the question asked by a mother who feels justified in refusing her daughter's request.

The camping area the girls chose is "hilly, dangerous country," she says, and the girls have never camped before. She feels they are asking for other troubles as well. Daughter has been sulking ever since, she says, and feels responsible for the trip's being called off for the other girls.

Unless the camping site is in a family camp site area with adjacent family campers aware of the girls in a protective way, it is silly for four girls to camp alone, no matter how mature they are. Snakebite and strange swimming holes could be the least of mothers' worries when girls are on their own in the woods. An area that has no facilities for emergencies is the least likely spot to camp, but any lonely area should be avoided by girl campers.

An 18-year-old feels her mother is "unreasonable and lives in another era," she writes:

"She gave me permission to take a summer job at an inn where many of my school friends will be working, but she's devoted a great deal of time since then describing the danger's I'll face. There's always an old bachelor or a handsome young married man ready to sweep me off my feet. She envisions my roommate as a tough-talking girl who never takes a bath. She has drummed up just about every type of situation that one would encounter, and I'm sure she will drive me crazy with phone calls when I'm away. What can I do about this to convince her that I'm mature enough to handle my own affairs?"

You could listen to your mother, and agree with her that such things could take place. That might reassure her. Many young girls tell their mothers that they are old-fashioned, one reason mothers do worry. Her situations may seem old-fashioned, since her script may have originated in another era. But don't think times have changed that much. The cast of characters may be the same, only the scenery changes. Many mothers may have made the mistakes they are trying to forewarn their daughters about.

PAPER ANNIVERSARY PARTY goes festive with a floral centerpiece made from paper napkins. It's easy and appropriate for that first wedding anniversary.

Paper Roses Bloom For First Anniversary Party

Not to be lost in the shuffle of this year's brides are the dozens of young Monroe County couples who will be celebrating their first wedding anniversary in June. Marking the transition from brides to young matrons, their friends can give an amusing and low cost party for a "paper anniversary couple."

Well-designed paper accessories suggest many ideas for games, gifts and general direction. First decide on a color scheme; then buy a paper table cloth or paper mats and matching napkins in one of the chosen colors.

For the centerpiece, a floral grouping of colored paper roses are fun and inexpensive to make yourself. Here's how: Open a casual-size napkin flat and then fold it into a triangle. With the folded edge at the top, begin rolling the napkin very loosely along the edge from the right hand corner to a point three inches from the left corner. Grasp the napkin one inch below the fold. Separate the two corners at the bottom carefully, then raise them to the rolled part (the bud) to form the petals. The left corner becomes the third petal. Bind the flower below the petals with a pipe cleaner and they will stay in place.

After 15 minutes, they can model their creations with a paper corsage awarded to the best.

Littler Duffs Tryout

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Gene Littler looked like anything except a champion Tuesday in his first tour of the saw-toothed Oakmont course, where his National Open golf title goes up for grabs Thursday. But he wasn't concerned.

Neither was he visibly shaken by reports his chief rival, Arnold Palmer, despite a nasty finger wound, was burning up the layout for the second straight day and regaining the form and confidence which have established him as the top golfer of the day.

"I had 82 blows if I had one," Littler said, after scrambling around the 6,494-yard, par 71 Oakmont Country Club course. "But it's ridiculous to take this score seriously. I'm a bit tired and I was just horsing around."

The quiet professional from Rancho Bernardo, Calif., scoffed at a suggestion he probably was suffering a letdown after his $25,000 first prize victory last weekend in the $100,000 Golf Classic at Upper Merion, N.J.

"I haven't played enough golf to go stale," he said. "I see no reason that I shouldn't be playing well again tomorrow and the next day. I certainly feel that my game is as sound and my attitude as good as when I won a year ago—on won the tournament last week."

"I can't believe, as some say, that the long hitter, such as Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, has an advantage here. The man who wins will be the one who can drive straight and putt well."

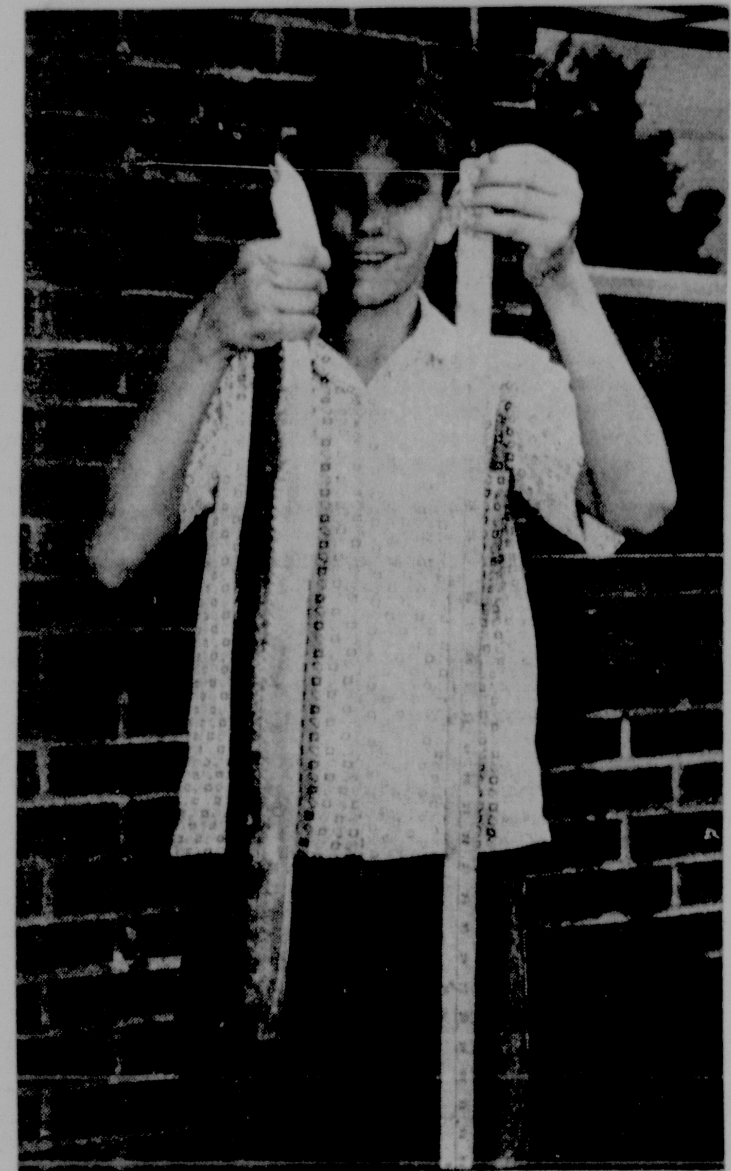

In his round Tuesday, Littler said his entire game was "loose and sloppy."

Palmer, who shot a 71 Monday with a banded ring finger on his right hand, was a couple of strokes under par for his latest round with a 69 and you could see his confidence booming. He had one bogey and three birdies. Sam Snead and Bob Gajda also had practice 69's.

"Two of the six stitches came out of my finger," Palmer said. "The cut didn't bother me at all. I'm playing well. I feel wonderful."

He cut his finger Sunday night, removing luggage from the trunk compartment of his car.

Oakmont's lightning fast greens—and not its 208 furrowed sand traps or hour-glass fairways—were the talk of most of the 150 contestants, putting in practice tees for the 72-hole grind.

Yanks Lance Tigers, 2-1; Lary Loses

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees beat their Old Detroit jinx, Frank Lary, 2-1, with the help of Roger Maris' 11th home run and Bill Stafford's six hit Tuesday night.

The Yanks, who had lost three straight to Baltimore, got to Lary for a run in the first on Phil Linz' single, Bobby Richardson's sacrifice and Johnny Blanchard's single to right.

Maris hit a Lary pitch into the upper deck in right field in the third inning. It left him 14 games behind. He rec'd place of last year.

Stafford, who took a string of 16 1-3 scoreless innings into his 12th start of the year, came through with a six-hitter and extended his runless string to 25 innings, before the Tigers scored in the ninth on singles by Rocky Colavito, Vic Wertz and Chico Fernandez. It was Stafford's sixth victory against three defeats.

Cubs Dunked For 40th Loss As Face Saves 4-3 Game

CHICAGO (AP) — Fireman Elroy Face saved the Pittsburgh Pirates' fourth straight victory Tuesday by getting Ernie Banks to drill into a game-ending double play as the Bucs edged the Chicago Cubs, 4-3.

Ken Hubbs, the Cubs' rookie second baseman, had just singled with one out in the ninth for the Chicagoans' 11th hit when Face collared Banks via a grounder to shortstop Dick Groat.

Face, who came aboard in the eighth, saved Harvey Haddix' fifth win among seven decisions as the Cubs became the first major league team to lose 40 games this season. They have won 20.

Pittsburgh shoved off with two-run scoring sprees in the first and second innings, to beat the Cubs a fifth time in the season's first six games. Glen Hobbie was the victim, suffering his eighth setback among nine decisions.

After Stadium Melee

Bird Rookie OK; No Fines Seen

NEW YORK (AP)—John Powell, Baltimore's rookie outfielder, still was in the hospital Tuesday in good condition, detained for observation after being hit on the head by a pitched ball in Monday night's Baltimore-New York game at Yankee Stadium.

Although a wild rumpus broke out when Robin Roberts threw a fast ball over the head of the Yanks' Roger Maris in the next half inning following the injury to Powell, there were no fines or suspensions planned by league headquarters.

Baltimore had moved on to Boston, with a 5-3 victory over the Yanks. The umpiring crew had shifted to another city. The Yanks were entertaining Detroit, another potentially explosive opponent.

In Boston, Joe Cronin, American League president, said he had a telephone report from umpire-in-chief Charley Berry and also a wire from Berry.

"At this time, I don't see where any action is necessary," said Cronin. "I will receive Berry's written report later."

"I was listening to the game on the radio. It sounded like the old Baltimore Orioles spirit bounced back."

"Charley told me that after Roberts threw high over Maris' head, he told both managers they would be held responsible for any throwing contest. He told me that he didn't think the pitchers threw at the hitters intentionally."

"It seems to have been a case of two managers interested in the welfare of their players, and that is good."

Powell was hit by Daley in the fourth inning. He was carried off the field on a stretcher and taken to the hospital where X-rays proved negative.

In the Yankee half of the fourth, Maris was the first man up. Roberts' first pitch sailed over his head to the screen. Maris started slowly toward the mound, but in hand. Hobbie Landrith, Baltimore catcher, intercepted him.

Landrith said something that displeased Maris who reacted by shoving the catcher. Then Elston Howard, Yank catcher, got into the act. Maris wouldn't say what it was that Landrith said.

"He said some things to me that got me," said Maris. "Next time that happens I hope he takes his mask off."

Pocono Playhouse Opener Shows Freshness And Wit

By Gloria S. Randolph
MOUNTAINHOME — The Pocono Playhouse opened its 16th season Monday night with a new play, "The Inkwell," starring vivacious Gloria Swanson, Harold J. Kennedy, who wrote the play, performs in it in one of the leading roles. The production has been supervised with some attention to detail and with obvious attention to forceful delivery of lines.

There is nothing sketchy about the performances or the overall presentation, but it lacks integrated direction, especially in the first act.

Billed as a comedy, the play has some freshness and wit. It also has some pathetic overtones which are intended to have dramatic substance. Because the characterizations are so broad, the intended philosophy at times becomes embarrassing rather than simply colored by humor.

Tailor-made
Miss Swanson portrays a movie queen whose life has been glamorous and successful, but lacking in true personal happiness. Her performance is full of vitality and her characterization is believable, not only because the part is tailor-made for her but because she has a quality of enduring fascination.

John Himes gives a credible performance as a small town doctor who has never forgotten his youthful love for the girl who became a famous star. Harold J. Kennedy and Ruth Gillette are competent, but the roles they play are rather sad and the bombastic delivery of their humorous lines tends to accent the pathos instead of sustaining the feeling of comedy.

Jeanette Leahy plays the star's daughter, a sensible woman who is content to live a comfortable unglamorous life. Her part is "straight", and she plays it well. Sharon Mazik and Marshall Breeden, who represent young love's search for happiness, tend to overact and suffer from lack of direction.

Funniest Part
The funniest part of the play is the first brief appearance by Donald Marye, as an obviously not-so-young man who tells "Lila" (Miss Swanson) that he is younger than she is. This is one place in the play where glamour and attractiveness win out.

The set, by Charles F. Hammer, Jr., is well executed and tastefully decorated. Robert Stelbom's lighting affects are fine. The technical aspects of the production are thoroughly professional.

The opening night audience responded warmly to the play and the best recommendation I can give it is to say that it is fast-moving and the lighter side of the story is entertaining.

Church Synod Reports On Building

BUCK HILL FALLS — The General Synod of the Reformed Church in America reported yesterday 10 new congregations were organized in the past year. The denomination's building fund now has $2,686,000 in loans to churches, the annual convention was told, and the extension foundation used $1,006,000 for similar purposes.

Dr. Bernard Mulder, of New York, executive secretary of the church's Board of Education, reported the board received a total of $1,126,000 in the past year to carry on its work.

Dr. Mulder said the denomination's three colleges—in Holland, Mich., and Pella and Orange City, Iowa—now have a total enrollment of 2,426 and its seminaries at New Brunswick, N. J., and Holland have a combined enrollment of 184 students for the ministry.

The synod announced the annual men's convention will be held in Chicago Nov. 23-25.

Steel Statistics Are Released

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel mills shipped 6,783,398 net tons of finished products in April, more than in the previous April but less than in the previous month, the American Iron and Steel Institute announced.

For the first four months of the year, the total was 27,979,482 tons, which was 46.8 per cent higher than the 19,060,361 tons shipped in the same period of 1961.

The April total compares with 7,698,811 tons shipped during March and with 5,133,470 tons shipped in April of 1961.

SCRANTON — "I think Drew Pearson is talking through his hat," Sgt. John Harrington, state president of the Fraternal Order of Police said recently.

In a speech at the installation dinner of the E.B. Jermyn Lodge at Koch-Conley Post American Legion, he criticized the columnist for his remarks concerning alleged increase in Mafia activity in Lackawanna and Luzerne counties.

"When it comes to investigating," he said, "I don't think Drew Pearson could follow a bleeding elephant in a snowstorm."

Sgt. Harrington said there was no connection between the Pennsylvania State Police and the Mafia and Mafia activity was no greater in this state than in any other.

He also took exception to a story in a Wilkes-Barre newspaper which speculated about Federal Bureau of Investigation checking

TEAMWORK!

Newspaper Advertising Strengthens Any Sales Team

When more sales are the goal, newspaper advertising can add real power to your selling team. Newspapers take your advertising into nearly 9 out of 10 homes every day. People welcome newspaper advertising because from it they can get a complete sales story without irritating pressures. They can absorb what they want at their leisure...analyze it...return to it for reference. Surveys show people read newspaper ads as eagerly as they read the news. For women, the ads are the most interesting thing in the newspaper; for men, the ads rate second only to sports news.* Team up with the daily newspaper to make—or break—your sales goals.

The Daily Record

Dear Abby

A Sure-Fire Test!

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I married a man who had all kinds of "big ideas." Thank heavens I was able to support myself because that's what I have been doing. But I can't support both of us forever. Abby, he is "proud." He is a college grad. (I am not.) He has been offered jobs, but he doesn't accept them because they are all "beneath him." I tell him to take whatever he can get until one of his big "deals" materializes. It is like talking to the wall. What does a wife do with a husband who sits at home doing nothing and then goes out to collect unemployment compensation? Fortunately, we have no children.

CARRYING THE LOAD

DEAR CARRYING: Per h a p s you are doing such a good job of

"carrying the load" your husband is reluctant to compete with you. Why don't you quit your job and hoist the burden on his shoulders for awhile? He might surprise you. And if he doesn't, you'll know that you "have a child" after all.

DEAR ABBY: Can you please tell me what you consider a decent curfew for a 15-year-old girl on a Saturday night?

DEAR JOANIE: Midnight. But the caliber of the boy you're with is more important than the hour of your return home.

DEAR ABBY: Why are so many people ashamed to admit they don't understand modern art? It is almost comical to watch some people trying desperately to make sense out of splashes, circles, squares and abstracts. Although they can't begin to figure out what the artist had in mind when he painted it, they will say it is "magnificent" and "exciting."

In the field of writing, we do not disarrange letters and mix up words and expect people to find the "beauty" and "meaning" in it. Why then all this gobbledygook in painting? I just don't get it.

DEAR FRANK: I don't get it, either. Let's merge.

Confidential to Abby readers: "All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing." E. Burke said it and I believe it. Exercise your right to vote.

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50c to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Wednesday, June 13
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — These odds can keep this day in line, as you will wish: To give within your own power, by your principles, and to save those others by that stitch in time. Hard work builds strong gains.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Venus going to most auspicious aspect tomorrow, negated with frost stimulus and recuperative offerings keen, prompt, advantage. Duties today of which you should take precision out front.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Day sits between favorable configurations of yesterday and tomorrow, but with frost stimulus, incentive, individuality, special attention. Neither rest in the past nor dream ahead; do and grow.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — While generally auspicious, few signs have the particularly favorable aspect your Moon maintains now. Let this mean appropriate action, rehabilitation, and only room for hope, work and faith.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You, too, enjoy strengthening aspects, but do not look for these in monetary and monetary ways alone. Communicate with those whose interests align with yours, and learn of others.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Increase prestige, cement good effects by virtue of reinforced stability and know-how, and through sheer courage, which always has its power from past accumulated stamina-asset.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — "Venus" increasingly favorable aspect urges your steadiness, but no matter what fore-guided by respect for details and regard for detail right and privilege. Your example watched.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Put your best positive qualities to the wheel and press forward accountably, if necessary, at times. Veto Dyke Show rush when pitfalls, loopholes are about; disqualify sensitive-nature.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Will be moment when interruptions, discussions, contradictions COULD annoy, hinder progress and ruffle dissonance if you permit. Take them as matter of course, you can profit from them.

December 24 to January 23 (Capricorn) — A number of things up for more thorough consideration, including regulations, system, ex-ecution, and those "minor" but usually found-to-be important details. Discontent friction.

January 24 to February 23 (Aquarius) — Head straight for the urgent tasks, and don't rush them either, no matter what more pleasant plans await. This way the time earned will feel wonderful. Shun dissenters, complainers.

February 24 to March 23 (Pisces) — Endless present aspects it would be well to review schedule; where could you delete or add, to enhance, reinforce. Expert advice not amiss. Young people's affairs need your scrutiny.

YOU BORN TODAY? This is the middle sector of Gemini, the "twins" the dual personality sign. And do not forget, this means plenty of personality and versatility besides meaning contradictions and occasionally excessive energy—spending them either, no matter what more pleasant plans await. This way the time earned will feel wonderful. Shun dissenters, complainers.

The pipe will be used in construction of an oil transmission line from Houston, Tex., to Staten Island, N.Y., with the first shipment scheduled for next month.

Class Day Awards Presented At Bangor High School

BANGOR — Class Day awards were made yesterday at Bangor Area Joint Senior High School. A total of 18 awards were given. David Bartman received the current events award, Annette Bozzuto won first biology award and Jean Klusko, second place. The American History essay award was given to Randall Dietrich, first place; Pam Wise, second and David Bartman, third.

Gas Heater Is Stolen

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP) — Who wants a heater in June? Somebody does—enough to steal a $600 gas furnace from the newly built home of Robert Coleman. Coleman said work on the home was nearing completion and everything was in order when he checked Saturday evening. But yesterday, where the furnace had been, there was nothing left but disconnected wires and safely-plugged gas lines. Police said marks indicated someone had dragged the furnace to the kitchen and out through the garage to a waiting truck.

Connie LaBar received the Gregg Memorial Plaque. The Granville Evans Memorial award was made to Antonia Turzo. Audrey Moyer received the Elks Auxiliary award. Larry Hallet received the Industrial arts award given by the Easton Forest 35, Tall Cedars of Lebanon. John Tinsley was cited as winner of the annual High School Mathematics contest. James Armitz and Barbara Adams each received awards from the Washington Township PTA Leadership awards. The Y-Gradydale society scholarship was awarded to Paulette Martin. William Sapgenberg won the special instructor's medal in biology. The Good Citizenship Medal from the Valley Forge Chapter of Sons of the American Revolution was given to Leo Reimold. Suzanne Weidman received the Greenwood T. Lewis safe driving award. Connie LaBar and Catherine Price received awards from the Underwood Corporation. Bowling Club awards went to Linda Harris, first, and Joanne Gower, second.

NEWFOUNDLAND — "Prepare with diligence for a useful life, to grow, to serve, to live," Rev. Wesley Kemp, Washington, N.J., told the 28 members of the graduating class of Southern Wayne Joint School, during the 46th annual commencement exercises yesterday in the school auditorium.

"Once you have prepared, then perform with integrity," he said. "The world has little to offer to you in the way of integrity. You must determine to act with fidelity, remembering that you have but one life to live, and that you must live it to the best of your ability."

Student speakers on the general theme, "Keeping Your Feet On the Ground in the Space Age," were Diane Smith, whose topic was "In the Field of Education," Judith Cramer, who discussed "Social Responsibilities," and Christine Lanuti, whose topic was "Spiritual Development."

During the presentation of awards, the following students received honors: Robert Hazleton, the science award to the senior demonstrating the greatest evidence of ability in the field; Judith Cramer, the D.A.R. Good Citizenship award; Betty Lee and Arthur Rigby, the Danforth Award as outstanding seniors exhibiting a "Four-Square" personality; Betty Lee and Donald Barnes, the first annual awards for outstanding achievement in the field of journalism. These awards were presented by Leland Cramer, principal of SWJS.

William Rubrecht, commander Post 859, American Legion, presented the annual legion awards to Robert Hazleton, as the outstanding senior boy, and Robert Strupcowski, as the outstanding athlete.

Mrs. Edythe Gilpin, president of Greene-Dreher Women's Club, gave to Judith Cramer the club's award as the outstanding senior girl.

C. Allen Edwards, representing the First National Bank of Newfoundland, awarded the bank's prize to the outstanding mathematics student, Robert Hazleton. Richard Crooks, president of the senior class, presented the class gift to Mr. Cramer, designating that it be used to purchase books for the library.

The invocation was asked by the Rev. Larry T. Lindemann and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. John Dougherty. The high school wind ensemble presented a selection under the music supervisor, with Judith Cramer featured at the piano and Robert Strupcowski, trombone.

Adult Film At Grand Today

A FILM for adults, "The Children's Hour" will open Wednesday at the Grand Theater, East Stroudsburg.

The controversial movie is based on Lillian Hellman's play which ran for 691 performances on Broadway.

The story is built on the consequences a lie has upon the lives of two young women.

Starring are James Garner, Audrey Hepburn and Shirley MacLaine.

Lehigh University Confers Degrees On Two Local Men

TWO Stroudsburg area students were among the approximately 500 Lehigh University seniors who received baccalaureate degrees at the 94th Commencement Exercises Monday in the Eugene Gifford Grace Hall. Degrees were conferred by Dr. Harvey A. Neville, university president.

Wynn Laurence LePage, president of The Franklin Institute in Philadelphia, delivered the commencement address on the subject "To a Successful Conclusion." He was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of engineering.

Dr. Neville also conferred the honorary degree of doctor of science upon Dr. James Bliss Austin, administrative vice president for research and technology, United States Steel Corporation, Pittsburgh; the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon Edward A. Curtis, vice president of revenues and regulatory matters, New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, Newark, N. J., and the honorary degree of doctor of humane letters upon Dr. Moses Hadas Jay.

John B. Durkee, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Durkee, Sr., 2149 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, was awarded the bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering. A graduate of Stroud Union High School, he was a member of the American Chemical Society and Engineers, of which he was president and attended its national convention in 1961.

He also was a staff announcer for the campus radio station, WLRN, and was a member of the Mustard and Cheese Dramatics Club. He participated in baseball and intramural sports.

Married to the former Dorothy Fackenthal of Scranton, he plans to work this summer with the E. I. duPont de Nemours Co., Charlestown, W. Va.

Next fall he will return to Lehigh to enter the Graduate School to study for a master's degree in chemical engineering.

He has been awarded a Fellowship by Lehigh's Department of Chemical Engineering.

A graduate of Newport Township High School, Keller worked for the Veratex Corp. prior to graduation.

Prior to the ceremonies, Keller will participate in the annual "swingout" of graduates and faculty in caps and gowns through the campus beginning at 6 p.m.

Professor of Greek and chairman of the department of Greek and Latin at Columbia University.

C. Jeffrey Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Cox, RD 5, Stroudsburg, was awarded the bachelor of arts degree.

A graduate of Stroud Union High School, he was sports editor and a member of the editorial staff of the Brown and White campus newspaper and was elected to Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalism honorary.

He was a member of Phi Kappa Theta social fraternity. He plans to enter the six-months training program of the U. S. Army.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a surprise every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to appeal to your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

It's our tenth anniversary, but we'd like to give you the birthday presents!

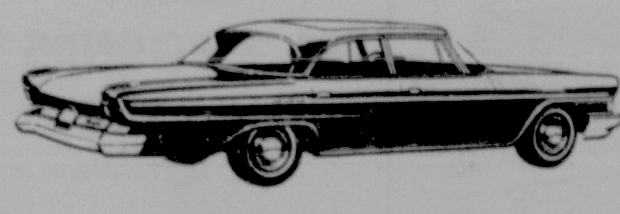

"In the ten years we have been in the car business, we discovered one important fact: if you give the customer good deals and follow it up with good service—then business is just naturally good! So, in celebration of our Tenth Anniversary, we thought we might just as well do what comes naturally: say 'Thanks' by offering some of the best deals in a decade! Come see!"
